Aldermen say ward changes needed

By Dave Gosnell
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Inequality among the city's wards may spur the city to change ward boundaries.

Second Ward Alderman Pat Schuman said at last week's City Council meeting he would like to see a "blue ribbon" committee study redistributing ward boundaries and populations. Several aldermen and Mayor Von Dee Cruse agreed with Schuman's idea.

There are seven city wards, with each having two aldermen. The wards vary greatly in area and population.

Schuman, who is chairman of the council's Street and Alley Committee, raised the issue as a result of the committee's investigation of ways to spend the city's share of Motor Fuel Tax money from the state.

The city plans to spend in each ward $50,000 of the $580,000 available in city MFT money. The $50,000 will be used mainly for street repairs in each ward.

Schuman said some wards have smaller territory and fewer streets to take care of, while other wards are larger and have greater need. He said another problem involves which wards should take in recent annexations.

Fourth Ward Alderman Dan Partney used his ward as an example.

"State Street has been repaved so many times that there is no curb anymore. Yet, some areas in the 4th Ward don't even have streets. These people (4th Ward residents) pay taxes, too.

They get mad," Partney said.

Seventh Ward Alderman Jeff Worthen and 5th Ward Alderman Lloyd Bailey agreed that the wards need to be changed.

No action was taken on Schuman's suggestion, but Cruse said he would like a committee to be formed soon.

Schuman also called for a street committee meeting at 6 p.m. Feb. 2 to decide how to spend the rest of the MFT allotment. He said proposals to spend the money "far exceed" the amount available.

Reviews and previews

Real estate probe concluding

Guilty pleas are expected in an ongoing federal investigation involving murdered real estate dealer Carl Hoffman and illegal loan applications for veterans. Four or five Granite City residents are said to have been involved in a scam to obtain Veterans Administration loans. The suspects are employees of area real estate and mortgage companies.

BAC to study administration

A report will be made in July on the reorganization of Belleville Area College's administration. The purpose of the report will be to examine how the administrative staff is organized and how it functions, said interim Chancellor B.J. Davis. BAC trustees approved the proposal to prepare the report Jan. 20.

Disputed mobile home park OK'd

Approval to build a 297-unit mobile home park on Quality Sand property is part of a settlement reached between the company and village in the face of an intent-to-sue document filed against the village Aug. 24. Widening and improving Kaseberg Lane and constructing a bridge over Long Lake onto Quality Sand property were part of the settlement.

Toffant supports Fields

By Dave Gosnell
Staff writer

The congressional campaign of Madison County Auditor Pete Fields got a boost from a former county sheriff.

Emil Toffant, of Madison and who served as county sheriff from 1978-86, endorsed Fields as the Democratic nominee for the 21st Congressional District seat in a press conference at the Madison County Courthouse in Edwardsville Tuesday morning.

"I've known Pete for 25 years. He's done an excellent job as auditor. He's trustworthy and I've always been able to depend on him. Everyone can depend on him. I know he'll make a good one (congressman)," Toffant said.

"This is a very meaningful endorsement to me personally, and also to my campaign," Fields said.

Over its banks

HIGHWAY FLOODED, AGAIN: A motorist splashes through the flooded northbound lanes of Illinois 203 Monday afternoon. The west end of Long Lake, near the Interstate 270 ramps, is once again flooded and has run onto the highway. This is the fourth time since late last year the highway has been flooded.

COPE, Vadalabene endorse Haine for state's attorney

By Jack C. Ventimiglia
Executive editor

GRANITE CITY — Political endorsements were delivered last week to County Board member Bill Haine, D-Alton.

Haine, 42, seeks to be the Democratic Party's primary choice for state's attorney March 15. He faces the incumbent, Dick Allen, 62, D-Granite City.

Haine was endorsed Saturday by the AFL-CIO's Committee for Political Education, and Friday by Sen. Sam Vadalabene, D-Edwardsville.

"The AFL-CIO people are community minded people," Haine said Monday. "They are interested in justice and they want that office to work. They want the Democratic Party to re-establish its tradition of confidence and they think I can do it.

"Sam does, too. I have to live up to a lot of good endorsements here. I mean, these are good people."

Allen expressed surprise Monday when told Vadalabene had endorsed Haine.

"That I don't understand. That's a puzzle to me," Allen said. He added, "Sam has been an organization person and Bill has the organization's support. I'm not pleased with it. Nor am I pleased with COPE's endorsement of Bill Haine."

Haine received the Madison County Democratic Party's Central Committee endorsement Dec. 9, getting 20,523 votes to 7,973 for Allen.

Haine said Vadalabene's endorsement is especially gratifying because the state legislator seldom gets involved in local political races.

"I'm really indebted to Sam. He didn't have to do that," Haine said.

In his letter of endorsement for Haine, Vadalabene stated, "I know that Bill, like myself, has the interest and ability to serve the people of Madison County. He will cooperate with and support the police, sheriff, and other law enforcement personnel of our county. He will bring crime to justice and the reputation of our county as an outstanding place to live and work."

Allen said COPE's endorsement amounts to support for the hometown, Haine, who lives in Alton.

"COPE was primarily dominated this time around by Alton people," Allen said.

Haine said getting the union organization's endorsement is significant because COPE usually endorses incumbents.

"I'll have my own labor endorsements coming, which will be from the Tri-Cities Area," Allen said. In addition, he said 33 committeemen candidates from Granite City would be endorsing him.

Haine said he is compelled to win the election and then to "live up" to the expectations of the people who support him. Haine's law office is in Wood River. He is a special assistant to the Illinois attorney general.

Cruse optimistic about American Steel's future

By Jack C. Ventimiglia
Executive editor

GRANITE CITY — A sleeping member of the city's industrial community, American Steel Foundries, is stirring.

Closed since November 1982, the foundry may reopen, Cruse said following his return from the Chicago office of the foundries' parent company, Amsted Industries Inc.

"They are looking for the market to increase. When it does, they are definitely coming back to Granite City," Cruse said Tuesday.

Cruse said he met with Norman Berg, president of American Steel, and learned the company's Alliance, Ohio, plant is finding increased demands for its railroad product. If demand exceeds supply, the Granite City plant could reopen, Cruse said.

"I have never told a judge how to vote in the selection of an associate," Cruse said in an interview in Washington. "The charges are purely political and they were timed to be released within 60 days of the primary."

"I am certain that any independent inquiry will show that there is no more influence by myself or others in St. Clair County than in any other county in Illinois," Cruse added.

Cruse said he was not surprised when allegations that he had influenced the selection of judges first surfaced in a letter from Belleville lawyer Charles

(See CRUSE, Page 6A)

Costello denies court influence

By David Rocks
PRU Washington bureau

WASHINGTON — St. Clair County Board Chairman Jerry Costello denied last week that he has influenced the selection of judges in the 20th Circuit.

Costello has been accused of trading judicial appointments for political favors, charges which Costello insisted are "political" and have been spread by the rival congressional campaign of Madison County Auditor Pete Fields. Fields denied Costello's claim.

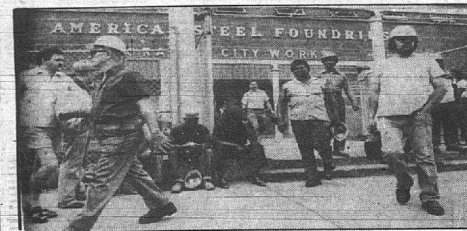

Costello and Fields are among the leading candidates in a four-man race for the Democratic nomination in the 21st District. Rep. Melvin Price, D-Belleville, plans to retire after 44 years in office.

Also running for the seat are Price's former top aide, Mike Mansfield, and Madison attorney Steve Maragades.

"I have never told a judge how to vote in the selection of an associate," Costello said in an interview in Washington. "The charges are purely political and they were timed to be released within 60 days of the primary."

"I am certain that any independent inquiry will show that there is no more influence by myself or others in St. Clair County than in any other county in Illinois," Costello added.

GUARDED OPTIMISM: American Steel Foundries, closed in November 1982, may reopen if the market for its product increases, according to Mayor Von Dee Cruse.

Warfield back on primary ballot

By Dave Gosnell
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Madison County Associate Judge Edward Ferguson has ordered Danny Warfield, Granite City, back on the ballot for a precinct committeeman slot.

Warfield had been thrown off the ballot by the Madison County Electoral Board in Precinct 26 after his filing was challenged by his precinct opponent, Wendy Kambarian. In her challenge to Warfield's petition, Kambarian said Warfield failed to list what office he was seeking.

Warfield said he thought the Electoral Board's decision was politically motivated.

Warfield's brother, Mac Warfield, is chairman of the Madison County Democratic Central Committee and Granite City Superintendent of Streets.

Ferguson said in his ruling that the board erred in throwing Warfield off the ballot because failure to fill in a blank on an election petition was not "fatal" to the petition.

But Ferguson upheld the Electoral Board's decision to keep Gerald Lakin, Granite City, off the March 15 primary ballot. Lakin had petitioned to run for the precinct committeeman slot in Precinct 7. His opponent, Beverly Schutzenhofer, Granite City, challenged Lakin's petition. Schutzenhofer claimed that signatures on Lakin's petition did not meet certification procedures.

Thorngate hears program on cactus

Clara Schillinger hosted the January meeting of the Thorngate Garden Club with the assistance of her daughter, Dorothy Kinney. Jane White offered the table blessing.

Chairman Betty King presided over the business meeting, and Pat Polley gave the reading, "Apache Wedding Blessing."

For roll call, members brought baby, engagement, graduation and wedding photographs.

Schillinger won the "Traveling Basket" brought by Lillian Delpe. Wanda Herman collected funds brought by the members for Phoenix Crisis Center. The Garden Club provided a ham.

The February meeting will be held at the home of Enid Boin at a new meeting time.

12:30 p.m.
June Lux gave a lesson on cactus. She showed how cactus are grafted one to another.

"This is often done because some cactus do not thrive well on their own roots. In this type of graft the top is sliced off the understock and the scion, similarly cut is put in place and held there by cactus thorns and by tying," Lux told the group.

Members brought their own cacti.

June Markham will give the February lesson on "Nesting Habits of Birds."

Others attending were: White, Polley, Beula Miller, Markham, Lux, King, Wanda Herman, Wanda Fitzsimmons, Lillian Delpe, Jean Bethel, Boin, Joyce Bettorf and guest Kinney.

Minerva aids student

The Minerva Woman's Club held a business meeting at Phyllis Brusatti's home.

Joyce Toussaint, a program chairman, said there will be a speaker on AIDS at the March meeting at Clara Parker's home.

Members agreed to send a high school junior next year to the Hugh O'Brien Leadership Conference.

Shirley Goff was appointed chairman of the committee to nominate officers for next year.

Others present were Rose Torosian, Elaine Shipcoff, Marilyn Schill, Margaret Rehagen, Jene Lybarger, Ruth Houser, Fran Holt, Joyce Edwards, Cathy Busch, Marilyn Bodnam and Beverly Benoit.

Church Women United to sponsor spring forum Feb. 9 in Venice

Church Women United held its first meeting of the year at St. Peter Evangelical United Church of Christ on Jan. 19.

Dorothy Kinney, newly installed president, presided over the meeting.

Kinney urged representatives from all churches to attend each board meeting, held on the third Tuesday of each month.

She also requested them to report coming events of their churches so that they may be published in the newsletter Church Women United sends to member churches and other individuals.

On Feb. 9, CWU will sponsor a Spring Forum at the Mount Nebo Baptist Church, 800 Jefferson Ave., Venice, with registration at 10 a.m.

The theme of the forum is "Imperative: Women in Poverty." Each person attending is requested to bring a "finger food."

Money collected to help provide a chapel for the women's prison at Dwight, Ill., has been sent.

A blood drive project, to be sponsored by CWU, is to be reinstated soon, the president said. A representative to and secretary for Project Help is still needed, she added.

The State Assembly of CWU will hopefully be held in this area next year. A place and agenda is to be determined soon. Ola Jones is the Southwestern Area chairperson.

Women of Achievement nominations now open

By Lucyann Boston Staff affiliate

The St. Louis area Women of Achievement... They number 321 and among that number are women who have cared for the sick and needy, women who have enriched the cultural heritage of the area and women who have excelled in business.

They are women who represent a wide variety of religious beliefs, economic backgrounds and personal callings. Within the next few months, 10 more extraordinary women will be added to their ranks as the Suburban Journals and KMOX Radio carry on the tradition begun 33 years ago by the St. Louis Women of Achievement.

Nominations for Women of Achievement are being accepted now, and the 10 Women of Achievement for 1987 will be announced Wednesday, April 13.

EDWARDSVILLE — Low-income families and senior citizens in Madison County would benefit from a county health department, supporters of such a department said Monday.

A public hearing held to discuss the proposal, a small group of supporters turned out to voice their opinions. Ten of the 29 County Board members also attended.

The board is considering the creation of a county health department to coordinate public health programs in the county. Of the 102 counties in Illinois, 73 have health departments, it was said. Madison County is the largest county in the state without such a department.

Jill Roberts, school nurse for the Roxana School District, said a county health department would provide greater care for children from low-income families. Roberts said that under the existing system, some parents cannot afford to immunize their children.

Senior citizens' activist Floyd Gallaher, 83, agreed. "It is a shame that a county this size does not have a county health board," said Gallaher, an Alton resident who organized the Madison County Senior Citizens Center and the Illinois State Council of Senior Citizens.

Gallaher said a health department would reach those who "fall between the cracks" in the present system. Dorothy Droste, a member of the health-study task force appointed by the County Board, said a public health department could coordinate care for the homeless, described by her as a potential threat to public health.

Droste said the department might also be used to investigate asbestos hazards and to coordinate an AIDS program. Madison County has the fifth highest incidence of AIDS in the state, she said.

The County Board is scheduled to vote on the proposal to create a county health department at its next meeting.

Travelers Abroad holds belated party

Thirty members and guests of Travelers Abroad met for a belated Christmas party at Jerry's Cafeteria.

President Elma Hoover welcomed the group and introduced Betty Ballentine, who sang, "For Thy Mercy and Thy Grace," a prayer for the upcoming dinner and thanks for the blessings of the old and new year.

After the dinner, Ballentine, accompanied by Barbara Williams, took the group on a musical tour.

Starting in France with "Bring a Torch, Jeannette, Isabella," the group then proceeded to Czechoslovakia to hear the carol, "Come All Ye Shepherds." The next stop was in Germany to hear "O Tannenbaum," a popular carol about a Christmas tree. Ireland was next on the trip, with "Christmas in Killarney," and then on to the 50th state to hear the "Hawaiian Christmas Song." Next was a trip south of Hawaii, down to the equator, to hear "Christmas Island." Ballentine's final song was "The Wasail Song," a traditional English carol.

Members of the club brought Christmas or trip souvenirs to display from their trips from around the world. The oldest item was a more than 60-year-old paper Santa Claus made by Col. Charles Schweitzer in the first grade. From Hawaii, there was a Santa's head made from a macadamian nut that still contained the kernel.

The most unusual items displayed were 10 handmade figures of a Nativity scene made by Dorothy Lionberger. Using scrap pieces of wire, which were wrapped in strips of brown paper bags, she fashioned the 6-inch figures. Each was dressed to conform with its position in the scene. Faces were carved on thread spools for the heads.

Tree ornaments displayed included a furry Eskimo figure from Alaska; a white Moravian star from Bethlehem, Pa.; a shimmering ball with attached dangling coins from Turkey; painted tin figures from Mexico; ornaments from China, including one showing a red carp (for good luck) and several butterflies; and wooden ornaments from Germany, as well as a large delicate angel.

A tiny crèche from Mexico City, which could be held in the palm of one's hand, and a hand-carved A-frame crèche from Germany were also shown. Porcelain nativity figures from Portugal were also viewed.

Gladys Pape exhibited china plates, which had been made in Taipei, Taiwan, in the 70s, with vacation pictures of her and the late Mr. Pape in the center of the plates.

Winners of the door prizes were Hoover, Dorothy Ruff and Pape.

The group sang several holiday songs to close the evening. Their final song, using the melody of "We Wish You a Merry Christmas," was a vacationer's dream: "We'll sail on an ocean liner, we'll fly on a 709er, a trek through the Alps to finer, have a safe trip next year."

Circle 835 meets at K of C hall

Our Lady of Fatima, Circle 835, Daughters of Isabella, met at the Knights of Columbus Hall.

Regent Dorothy Hoedebeck opened the meeting, and Chancellor Goldie Coleman led members in a prayer.

The recording secretary read the minutes of the previous meeting, and other officers submitted their reports.

Refreshments were served during the social hour by hostesses Mary Tolka, Johanna Bukovac and Anniese Gyramati.

Warriors fall to Comanches in regular-season finale

By Carl Jacobs
Staff writer

ST. JACOB — Mike Garland is hoping history will repeat itself.

One year ago, Granite City downed Cahokia 37-15 in the last regular season meet of the year. Only to have the Comanches come back to defeat the Warriors in the regionals. On Saturday, Cahokia downed Granite City 37-19 to end the regular season and Garland wants his team to come back and defeat Cahokia in this year's regional.

"We are going to try to put it all together this week and hopefully history can repeat itself," Garland said. "But Russ Baum is a good coach and his team is good."

In Baum's estimation, the only thing left to do is wrestle. "They (Cahokia's wrestlers) know what has to be done," Baum said. "It's all mental now. We can beat anybody in the regional, but anybody can beat us, too."

Granite City was without two of its top wrestlers against the Comanches. Bryan Patchett in the 132-pound weight class was out with a groin pull and Rich Fenoglio at 138 was sick all week and Garland held him out.

"We would have needed both of those wrestlers to upset Cahokia and that's what it would have been — an upset," Garland said. "But I didn't put them in this week and risk the chance of them being out for the regionals. Next week is much more important. We gear our whole season for the regionals."

The regional will be Saturday at Belleville East High School.

Against Cahokia, Todd Hutchinson won by forfeit at 96 pounds and Granite City won by forfeit at 112. But Rich Smallie lost to Abby Myers at 135 pounds, Brent Davis was defeated by Shawn Brown at 128, Gary Bazzel was pinned by Carlos Raigans at 119 and Scott Moss was pinned by Lance Taylor at 126 before Jerold Moss defeated Bryan Gryzmala at 132. After the first six matches, Granite City trailed the Comanches 19-9.

"That was probably the difference in the meet," Garland said of Brown and Taylor's victories. "They (Davis and Moss) were beaten by guys they beat in the (holiday tournament)."

Fenoglio's replacement, Grant

Abunroth, was pinned by Nehemia Sims at 138 pounds, providing a comfortable lead for the Comanches.

Jim Stout lost to Darnell Thomas 9-5 at 145. Dan Grayson pinned George Page at 155, but Comanche Jon Drake pinned Chris Hoffman at 167 to offset the two matches. Terry Stanley then lost a tough 7-3 match to Fred Garrett at 185 before heavyweight Dale Hutson defeated Bam Hurd 12-3.

The loss to Cahokia may be a blessing in disguise for Garland and his squad.

"Last year we were favored and lost and next week we won't be favored," Garland said.

The Warriors also topped Murphysboro 31-14 on Saturday to end the regular season with a 15-9-1 dual meet record. More on Saturday's regional will appear in Thursday's Press-Record.

BY STANLEY 7-3; heavyweights DALE HUTSON defeated Bam Hurd 12-3.

GRANITE CITY 51, MURPHYSBORO 14. HUTCHINSON won by forfeit 10-5. SMALLIE pinned Nathan Follmer 11-11. BRENT DAVIS won by forfeit 11-9. RICH KALLIN defeated BRIAN KESSELMAN 15-4. SCOTT MOSS won by technical fall over Ryan McGee 4-20. 138 - SHAWN BROWN pinned ABUNROTH 2-40. 145 - DARNELL THOMAS defeated JIM STOUT 9-5. 155 - DAN GRAYSON pinned GEORGE PAGE 10-22. 167 - JON DRAKE pinned CHRIS HOFFMAN 1-42. 185 - FRED GARRETT defeated TERRY STANLEY 7-3.

Skaters win division

Although he isn't perfect, Gary Henson isn't a bad prognosticator.

When the hockey season started back in April, Henson knew this year's Warrior squad wasn't nearly as strong as those of recent years, but he also felt the team was still good enough to win its division.

That prediction came true on Saturday as Granite City rode the smoking sticks of its top scorers to a 12-2 win over Hazelwood Central in the final game of the Mid States Club Hockey Association's North Division championship for Granite City.

It's the third time in the last five years the Warriors have won the division. But in the previous four years the Warriors were blessed with much more natural talent in the form of Todd Hinterser, Lee Schreiber, Collins Harlan et al.

"If someone had told me at the beginning of the year we would be division champions, I probably would have bet on it," Henson said. "But the win on Saturday made me feel like we wouldn't have bet on that. With our schedule this week we will probably end up 12-9 overall. That's about the best we can do."

"But this team deserves everything it can get. I'm really proud of this team."

As usual, the high-scoring quintet of Jim Roberson, Tommy Brown, Matt Krekovich, Richie Grogan and Matt Schnefke led the way against Hazelwood Central. Roberson had four goals and three assists to give him 37 points on the year. Brown had a goal and four assists; Krekovich had two goals; and Grogan added a pair.

"Hazelwood Central is pretty down this year, but it was a nice win," Henson said. "I liked the attitude of our team. They really were determined to go out and wrap it up. We're coming along pretty good."

A league meeting will be held Feb. 10 to determine pairings, but the Warriors probably won't open playoff action until Feb. 15.

The top two teams in each of the league's four divisions are in plus 12 wild card teams. Teams 13 through 20 play each other in one game to determine the four opponents for the division champions in a two-game series. The second-place teams play teams 9 through 12 in two-game series. The quarterfinals and semifinals are also two-game series.

In a two-game series, if one team wins both games or gets a win and a tie, that team wins. If the two teams split, a 10-minute mini-game is played after the second game. If that game is a tie, the teams go to sudden death. That's where Granite City was knocked out last year by Fox.

Parkway Central and CBC are other division champions, with Parkway West, Kirkwood and Fox fighting for the other title. Granite City will probably be seeded fourth among the four division champs.

"I'm looking forward to the playoffs," Henson said. "We have a chance to get to the second round and then we'll see what happens."

Lancers keep Warriors winless in SWC

By Gary King
Staff writer

BELEVILLE — Don Deterding and the basketball Warriors can't win for losing. Literally. Just about the time Deterding thinks he's plugged all the holes in the Warriors' reservoir of problems...drip...drip...drip.

The plot remained grossly true to form for Granite City on Saturday as a leaky Warrior third quarter helped the Belleville East Lancers navigate their way to a 79-66 Southwestern Conference victory.

With the win, Granite City dropped its 11th straight verdict and fell to 3-16 on the season and 0-4 in the SWC. Belleville East raised its mark to 6-11 and 3-3 in the conference.

The leak that sprung the Lancers past the reeling Warriors in Saturday's contest was defense, or more accurately, a lack thereof.

After falling behind 32-30 at the half, the Lancers performed a quick dissection on the Warrior defense with a 16-4 scoring spurt to take a 46-36 lead five minutes into the third quarter. Granite City never found its

GRANITE CITY	SCORING	18	15	15	18-66
BELEVILLE EAST	18	20	24	28-79
GRANITE CITY	Cook 21 (7 Spotlights), Mike A. Wilkinson 15, Rogers 14, Miller 6, Burton 5, Hall 3, Van Buren 2, PUGH (10 Spotlights), PUGH 12.
BELEVILLE EAST	Schwartz 20, Love 16, Abel 15, Wang 10, JONES & Boyer 1, PUGH (7 Spotlights), PUGH 11.

way back to shore.

Another blown lead. Another bad quarter. Another loss. And another bitter pill of frustration for a young Warrior squad that is in dire need of a confidence overhaul.

"It's just one of those things where it's turned into a snowball effect," Deterding said in a quiet, contemplative tone. "It always seems we're missing something or somebody every game."

"We just haven't put all five guys together at the same time yet. When three or four of them are on, one or two of them can't buy a bucket. It's just a vicious cycle that we're caught in right now."

The most notable victims of

The Cycle in Saturday's contest were Warrior center Kevin Sanders and point guard John Van Buskirk.

Sanders, who scored 12 of his 14 points in the first half, ran headlong into a third-quarter shooting slump that saw him miss eight straight shots to aid the Lancers' comeback cause.

Van Buskirk, who came into the game averaging more than eight points a contest, was held scoreless before fouling out with 4:20 left in the game.

"You take away the problems of the Warriors' inability to rebound and control the Lancer offense,"

Still, Deterding said the ultimate reason for the loss was the Warriors' inability to rebound and control the Lancer offense.

"You take away the problems of Van Buskirk and Sanders had tonight, and the reason for the loss still stems from us getting beat to death on the boards," the Warrior coach said.

"Our defense isn't that great right now to begin with. In order to get us some more offensive punch, we've made some changes in the lineup that have hurt us defensively. As a result, we've only got one pure rebounder (Sanders) in the starting lineup. That's hurting us."

The Warriors were also stung by a lopsided 23-4 Lancer advantage in free throws, 12 of which Belleville East connected on in the fourth quarter.

As has become his trademark of late, Warrior sophomore Matt Cook kept matters competitive by connecting on seven three-pointers en route to 21 points. In all, Granite City hit on 10 shots from behind the tri-line, with Mike A. Wilkinson collecting two three-pointers and reserve guard Kenny Gray cashing in on one trifecta off the bench.

Illinois College coach Tom Rowland said, Brandt's performance was particularly impressive because it came at one of the premier small college wrestling tournaments in the Midwest.

Brandt, a 1987 graduate of Granite City High School, is the son of Paul and Sheila Brandt of 2400 Meadow Lane, Granite City.

scoring spurt late in the fourth quarter, when eight quick points by Wilkinson and five points off the bench from sixth man Mark Miller trimmed a 72-48 Lancer lead to 75-66. But it would prove too little, too late.

Belleville East benefited from a balanced scoring punch featuring Bernell Love, Eric Abel and center Cy Schwarz. Schwarz led the Lancers with 26 points, while Abel and Love picked up 16 and 15 points, respectively.

The Warriors will take another shot at picking up their first win of 1988 this Friday when the SWC-leading Collinsville Kahoks come to town for an 8 p.m. contest at Memorial Gymnasium.

Deterding said he'd like to see the Warriors' Tragicomic script take a turn for the better.

"If losing didn't hurt so much, this whole thing would be almost comical," Deterding said, smiling sheepishly.

Conference will examine black collegians' decline

Black enrollment in college has dropped despite an all-time high number of black high school graduates, according to the American Council on Education.

This comes at a time when more and more jobs are requiring a college education. What this means is that more blacks are less qualified to enter the job market, said Paul Owoc, academic advisor and counselor in the Student Educational Services Center at St. Louis University.

"In the long run, they lose, colleges and universities lose and the nation loses," Owoc said.

A national conference to explore the nationwide dilemma created by the decline of black enrollment in higher education will be sponsored by Student Educational Services of St. Louis University on Feb. 18 and 19 at the Omni International Hotel, St. Louis Union Station.

Nationally known experts in higher education will speak, along with 50 presenters representing more than 30 educational institutions.

The statistics are in, noted Owoc, the conference chairperson. Between 1976 and 1985, the percentage of black high-school graduates entering college decreased from 33.3 percent to 28.1 percent. While they make up about 13 percent of college-age youth, blacks represent only 9.5 percent of all undergraduates.

"We know what the issues and the problems are," Owoc said. "But we don't know why it is happening. A conference of this magnitude will bring college educators, administrators and support personnel together to discuss some of the solutions. Hopefully, those attending will return to their colleges and universities and try some of the solutions they never have tried before."

Co-sponsors for the conference include St. Louis University's offices of admissions and student development, the School of Business and Administration and the Minority Issues Forum, Harris-Stowe State College, the Urban League of St. Louis and Anheuser-Busch Co.

The conference will open at 8:30 a.m. Feb. 18, and close Friday with a 1 p.m. lunch and synthesis. Registration fee is $175 in advance, or $185 on site. For reservations, call 659-2990.

Ruth Lucy Lucy earns pilot license at school

Ruth Lucy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Lucy, 2423 Woodlawn Ave., has earned her FAA private pilot license.

Lucy is a full-time student at Emery Aviation College in Greeley, Colo.

Formerly a student at Granite City High School, Lucy is in training for a career in the aviation industry. With the achievement of this license, her next objective is a commercial pilot license with instrument flight rating.

Upon completion of the training, Lucy plans to enter the aviation industry, initially as a flight instructor.

Emery is located close to the eastern foothills of the Rocky Mountains in the northeastern corner of Colorado. It is a preparatory college that awards an associate of occupational studies degree to the graduates, who complete all the academic requirements at the same time they are earning their FAA pilot credentials.

These certificates include a commercial pilot's license with instrument flight rating, certificated flight instructor, and instrument flight instructor licenses.

Training for multi-engine airplane pilot and instructor ratings as well as commercial helicopter pilot licenses are also available at Emery. Training for the basic program normally requires just under a year to complete.

YOU GOTTA HAVE ART: The works of Elizabeth "Grandma" Layton will be exhibited through Feb. 12 in the University Center Gallery of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. Using a technique known as "contour drawing," the septuagenarian artist has created a series of drawings and sculptures with "You Gotta Have Art," a work done in graphite, colored pencil and crayon, was created in 1981, a few years after Mrs. Layton began her newfound career.

Promoting takeoff of 'next generation' airports

While the nation's aviation system is being upgraded, planners also should be laying the foundation for 'next generation' airports, said Federal Aviation Administration head T. Allan McArthur.

That group of airports would incorporate ground transportation systems, microwave landing systems and state-of-the-art terminal design, he said.

McArthur, a former Webster Groves resident, was the featured speaker at a Dec. 18 luncheon in St. Louis, part of a "Tribute to Transportation" observance marking the 60th anniversary of Charles Lindbergh's flight across the Atlantic.

Developing a new generation of airports is part of McArthur's "Impact '88" plan, an effort to change the public perception of airports.

"Every one of you acknowledge the importance of an airport to the business community," McArthur said in his speech. "But most of you, I suspect, subscribe to the '15-miles-over-yonder' philosophy. I guess we all tend to. That means we all support a vibrant airport. But 15 miles over yonder."

McArthur also unveiled his agency's Airport System Capacity Development Action Plan, a program to assist state and local governments in building new airports and expanding existing ones.

The FAA administrator said the plan includes educational, planning and funding initiatives that will support development of a national system of airports that can meet current and projected capacity demands, improve air safety and help ease congestion and delays.

Regarding congestion and delays, McArthur said 18 airports, including Lambert-St. Louis International Airport, already are classified as "seriously congested," a rating based on more than 20,000 hours of flight delays at each of them in 1986. That number could increase to more than 50 during the next 10 years.

If action is not taken, he said.

Lambert had 35,130 hours of delays, McArthur said.

He talked of the need for more reliever airports, such as an airfield St. Louis County is proposing near Eureka. Richard Hrabko, director of Spirit of St. Louis Airport, said the master plan for the new airport is being developed now by county officials. Upon completion, it will be reviewed by the FAA.

McArthur also said a study is being conducted regarding the use of Scott Air Force Base in Belleville for some of the cargo traffic now coming in at Lambert. That study should be complete next June, he said.

Credit card insurance may not be necessary

By Mary Schirmer
Staff affiliate

Credit cards have become such an accepted form of payment for goods and services that few people do have one.

Fifty-two percent of U.S. consumers age 25 to 34 and 60-plus percent of consumers age 35 and older have at least one credit card, according to the Federal Reserve System.

Even the age group that is less-established financially, those age 25 and under, rate high in the credit card world. The Federal Reserve reports 32 percent of the people in that age group have at least one credit card.

Those same consumers often feel obligated to protect their cards from loss with insurance.

But credit card protection services may be costly and unnecessary, University of Missouri consumer education specialist Patricia G. Dollar said.

"The things that are performed by the credit card service can be performed by the consumer, if the person is informed and organized," Dollar said.

"I've lived through this myself. I realized I was paying $12 to $15 a year for a credit card protection service."

Consumers should notify companies when credit cards have been lost.

Consumer laws protect the public from liability if the companies are notified of lost cards within a few days of the loss.

Math skills program offered

The "Count on Domino's" mathematics program for the third year is challenging thousands of students across the nation to use their ingenuity and at the same time develop math skills.

Domino's Pizza Inc., together with the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics (NCTM), developed the program for kindergarten through 12th grade classrooms in 1985.

"Count on Domino's" is a supplemental mathematics program designed to encourage students to create, demonstrate and solve mathematics and math-related activities, such as games and problems, by using sets of double-six dominoes.

NCTM President John A. Dossey said the program is unique because it promotes private-public sector partnerships. "Last year, more than 5,700 teachers and thousands of students across the country participated," said Dossey.

It is available to all elementary and secondary school math teachers from now through March 15.

Teachers who want to participate may mail their name, the school's name, address and telephone number to: "Count on Domino's", Post Office Box 1990, Ann Arbor, Mich. 48106-1990 or call 1-800-777-7450 between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. on weekends.

Domino's Pizza and the NCTM invite teachers to submit an activity for judging in national competition. The entry must be postmarked and mailed to the NCTM by April 25. National winning math activities will be selected in each of four grade categories, K-3, 4-6, 7-9 and 10-12, to get a $1,000 prize award.

Mutual funds are a popular way to invest money. Many people use mutual funds to grow their money over time. Mutual funds are pools of money that are invested in a variety of assets, such as stocks, bonds, and real estate. They are managed by professional investors who make decisions about which assets to buy and sell. Mutual funds can provide a diversified portfolio of investments, which can help reduce risk. They can also provide a steady stream of income, either through dividends or interest payments. Mutual funds are available in a variety of forms, including open-end funds, closed-end funds, and exchange-traded funds. They can be purchased through a broker or directly from the fund company. Mutual funds are a long-term investment strategy that can help you achieve your financial goals.

Mutual fund depends on objectives

By Bob Hardcastle

Many investors are eyeing with uncertainty the mutual funds, many of which over the last five years have had very good returns. Now, after the October pull-back, the question is: Are mutual funds still a good investment?

I am asked regularly by investors if they should place some of their investment dollars in mutual funds. My answer continues to be, "Yes, but let's look where in mutual funds the money should be placed."

It is very important to note that most mutual funds contain a family of funds in which different percentages of the fund's money can be placed. Before proceeding, we must set our objective. Are we looking for long term growth? Do we need a monthly income? Are we after income and growth?

*For an individual interested primarily in a monthly or quarterly income, a high-yield, high-quality or bond series fund should be where the investment dollars are placed. These types of mutual fund series usually do not have any investment dollars in the stock market. The money is spread between treasury bills, treasury bonds, corporate bonds, certificates of deposit and money markets.

There is no guarantee that the bonds will not lose any of their value in the fund, but these types of investments usually are considered very low- or low-risk. The yield or income that is paid out to the investor usually is somewhere between 7 percent and 10 percent. This income can either be taken or placed back in the fund to purchase more shares.

Over the years I have found that most individuals who do not want to have their money tied up in stocks, pick this type of series for their mutual fund investments. Their risk or principal usually is tied to movement of bonds. As the bond prices rise so can the principal; if the bond value decreases so can the price per share.

If an investor's main concern is capital appreciation—growth—then a growth stock or total-return mutual fund is a good place to be. In these funds a portfolio manager diversifies between bonds, money markets, CDs and stocks, usually the higher the percentage in stocks in such funds means a greater degree of risk. An investment in a straight-stock series mutual fund where all of the money is invested in stocks could be a much higher risk. Likewise, those series that put a much smaller percentage of the total investment in stocks, could be a lower risk.

An investor always should follow the type of stocks that are in each portfolio. Stock in a young, aggressive, non-blue company probably will be a much higher risk than a 20-year-old, blue-chip, non-aggressive stock. Most series have objectives that call for them usually to keep a certain percentage of invested dollars in certain investment categories. An example might be a stock fund that invests at least 70 percent of its money in stocks. A bond fund, on the other hand, may have 10 percent or more in bonds at all times.

If you know the objective of the series then you can best decide how their objective fits with yours. A total-return fund is unique in that most cases it can be completely in or out of a particular investment market in one day. This means it could go from 100 percent invested in stocks one day to 100 percent invested in bonds the next day and then have 100 percent invested in money markets the next day. A lot of investors like this type of approach, in which the portfolio manager generally has complete control of the fund's money.

*For those investors interested in a combination of growth and income, options include investment in a balanced fund or convertible fund. Invested dollars in these funds usually are spread more evenly in stocks, bonds, money market, CDs and cash equivalents. These series usually pay an income on a quarterly basis and, over the last 10 years they have had a good 8 percent and higher growth per year.

Although these funds usually will not match the income of a straight income series or the growth of a capital appreciation series, they do give the investor more diversification with greater balance.

For those interested in growth, over the last three years many funds are starting to come out with overseas and international fund series. The portfolio managers of these funds invest money in foreign currencies, and in businesses and investments overseas. The risk is much higher in these type of series, so the return can be substantially greater. There usually is more of a roller-coaster type return on these special funds.

Artwork from high school on exhibit

The jury for the 10th annual High School Art Competition, sponsored by Washington University School of Fine Arts, has voted to accept nine pieces of artwork from Granite City High School students. These pieces were all completed in the fall semester.

The competition is stiff since all high school juniors and seniors within a 100-mile radius of St. Louis are eligible, said Art Rich, art department head at Granite City High School. Students at all art work were submitted to be judged by Stanley Tasker, professor emeritus, School of Fine Arts, Washington University.

"This is the seventh year our high school has entered the competition and we are very pleased to have nine works of art accepted to this most selective exhibit," Rich said.

The students having single pieces of work accepted are Chris Gutterrez, Nathan Randall and Steve Willard. Students with two pieces of art accepted are Ron May, Tim Stefanoff and Dennis Winn. The students are taught by Rich and Phyllis Weiss.

Fourteen Midwestern art schools, colleges and universities will have representatives viewing this show, Rich said.

The exhibition opened Sunday with a reception for the participants from 3-5 p.m. The exhibit will run through Feb. 14 in Bixby Hall, located on the southeast corner of the campus. Gallery hours are 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday and 1-5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

Much station jumping happened in 1987

By William Scott Simon

Because every other columnist in the free world and other assorted countries have compiled year-in-review stories, it put the pressure on this reporter to do the same.

JANUARY — KKOK-AM (880) dropped its talk-entertainment format. Sportscenter Ron Jacober was let go and joined KMOX-AM (1220) in April. Grant Horton immediately moved to KMOX-AM (1220) from KKOK to host the 9 a.m. to noon shift. KMOX then moved Bruce Bradley to the 4 to 6 p.m. shift.

MARCH — Television ratings for February show KSDK-TV (Channel 5) remained No. 1, followed by KMOV-TV (Channel 4). News ratings for KTVI-TV (Channel 2) plummeted after the arrival of new news anchors Karen Gallagher and Lloyd Immel.

MAY — KMOX and KMOV-TV sportscenter Dan Dierdorf was signed by ABC-TV to join "Monday Night Football" telecasts.

J.C. Corcoran, who left KSHE-FM (94.7) in December 1986, returned to radio as morning jock at KSD-FM (93.7) and called his show the Breakfast Club. Don "D.J." Johnson and Joe "Mama" Mason jumped from KSHE to join him, while rumors about popular sidekick John "U-Man" Ulett also moving surfaced. But later in the summer, Ulett signed a contract to stay at KSHE.

JUNE — Engineers and technicians for KPLR-TV (Channel 11) began a strike that would last three months.

St. Louis Blues radio broadcasts moved from KKOK to KMOX.

Telecasts of St. Louis University basketball games moved from KDNL (Channel 30) to Channel 11.

JULY — After 25 years, Channel 5 lost a bid to Channel 11 for the rights to telecast Cardinals baseball from 1988 through 1990. Channel 5 fixture Jay Randolph was not hired by Channel 11.

which announced that Ken Wilson and Al Hrabosky, baseball Cardinals broadcasters on Centcom Cable, would become the new broadcast team. Randolph then joined the Cincinnati Reds telecast crew.

AUGUST — Jon Sloane, sports director at Channel 11 since 1978, left the station to enter St. Louis University law school. Rich Gould, who worked at Channel 11's sister station in Sacramento, Calif., replaced him.

Channel 2 general manager Wayne Thomas announced on the 6 p.m. news Aug. 21 that sportscenter Zip Rzepka had agreed to a five-year contract with the station, but it was a marriage that ended in a messy divorce.

OCTOBER — Channel 4 announced it signed Rzepka to a five-year contract beginning in January 1988 — the station and Rzepka said that Channel 2 failed to produce a contract with terms verbally agreed upon in August. The announcement was a public relations blow to Channel 2. Rzepka joined consumer reporter Ellen Jaffe, reporter Russ Mitchell as well as Larry Connors as Channel 2 news staffers who jumped to Channel 4 in less than a year.

St. Louis Steamers indoor soccer radio broadcasts were moved from KKOK to WIL-AM (1430).

NOVEMBER — Channel 2

sued Rzepka and Channel 4 for breach of contract and requested the court to enforce a six-month non-compete agreement, which was in Rzepka's contract with Channel 2.

Channel 2 hired Iola Johnson, who worked from 1973 to 1985 in Dallas as a television news anchor. It was believed she would become a primary news anchor.

Frank O. Pinlon, the popular morning comedian at country music KUSA-AM (550) announced he was leaving the station. Competitor WKXX-FM (104.1) said Pinlon would join their station in April 1988 after serving his six-month non-compete agreement. But KUSA filed a lawsuit, claiming Pinlon had a contract with them until January 1989. The matter still has not been heard in court.

Two new radio stations hit the airwaves — KSTZ-FM (105.7) and WRYT-AM (1080).

DECEMBER — An out-of-court settlement between Channel 2 and Channel 4 ordered Rzepka's six-month non-compete clause to be enforced, which prohibits him from appearing on Channel 4 from Jan. 10 to July 9.

Arguments about the validity of the verbal agreement between Channel 2 and Rzepka will be heard in court March 22 and 24.

Channel 2 announced they hired Kevin Cokely of Washington and Stu Klitenic of Detroit. Cokely, a capital bureau reporter, was a news anchor in Cleveland from 1980 to 1985. Klitenic was a sports anchor in Detroit with two stations since 1982.

Cher's 'Moonstruck' glows with eccentricity

MOONSTRUCK — The best-laid plans go completely haywire in director Norman Jewison's sophisticated romp about an eccentric Italian American family and a dowdy widow (Cher) who seeks to wash away the bad blood between her fiancé and his only brother (Nicholas Cage) by inviting him to their wedding.

Rated PG. (Language.)

Many people who go to see Cher in "Moonstruck" (3 stars) will wonder what all the fuss is about.

The publicity blitz for this film, centered almost entirely around Cher, is raising a smoke screen of hype that seems to be an attempt to downplay the movie's very flagrant shortcomings, as well as promoting some of "Moonstruck's" very laudable strong points.

For instance, Nicholas Cage as Cher's improbable fiancé and regaling-love-interest gives his second ridiculous performance, following "Peggy Sue Got Married," another motion picture in which Cage's acting skills and vocal presence seemed in a constant warfare of which could be worse.

Although Cher is satisfactory playing the part of an Italian neighborhood accountant who is unlucky in love and now ready to settle for something less, she is far more effective playing women closer to her persona in real life, as in the films "Mask," "Silkwood" and "Come Back to the Five and Dime, Jimmy Dean, Jimmy Dean."

Throughout the script of "Moonstruck," there are some marvelously funny, very human scenes. There are moments when "Moonstruck" is truly a sky-high endeavor. But the glow is inconsistent, and director Norman Jewison has been unable to keep "Moonstruck" solidly entertaining throughout. The film has far too many lapses.

On a positive note, "Moonstruck" features one of the best supporting casts in recent years. Vincent Gardenia as Cosmo Castorini, Cher's father, is a blustering, comic triumph playing an overpriced plumber who likes to have a few romantic connections on the side. Olympia Dukakis as Rose Castorini, the long-suffering but still loving wife of Cosmo, gives the best performance in "Moonstruck." Danny Aiello plays Cher's fiancé, who loves her more than anyone else in the world, as long as you do not include his mother in Sicily.

"Moonstruck" is a movie that did not live up to my expectations. It has a remarkable final scene but this film is one Italian love comedy that will leave you hungry for a little more amour, and overall, a little more of everything.

Frank Hunter — Director, Norman Jewison has turned out a cockeyed but engaging romantic comedy, "Moonstruck" (4½ stars), written by John Patrick Stanley that should help chase the winter blues (or the blues your naughty sweetie gave to you) assuming your sense of humor is intact.

Cher and Nicholas Cage star, along with a gang of immensely likable supporting players who roam through a whimsical, sentimental ode to an eccentric Italian-American family living in Brooklyn, N.Y., beneath an enchanting silvery moon.

A lunar attraction to be reckoned with, it never shows the dark side because this is a very bright, upbeat movie despite the problems that plague the principal characters.

Cher is Loretta, a 37-year-old widow living with her parents, engaged to a man she does not love (Danny Aiello). He is in Italy visiting his dying mother, but Loretta has decided to marry him because she was nuts about her first husband and he died young.

Nicholas Cage plays a baker and Loretta's prospective brother-in-law, a sizzling, attractive man as he takes her to the opera and later to bed for the second time.

The encounter leaves Loretta tortured with conscience but succumbing to temptation does seem to run in the family.

Her wealthy plumber-father, hilariously played by Vincent Gardenia, nervously keeps a mistress but her wise and wryly humorous mother (Olympia Dukakis) is an immensely appealing woman who has accepted the situation because she knows her husband is terrified of old age.

If a husband is inclined to cheat, a wife like Dukakis is the safest port he can run to in the storm that is sure to follow. Dukakis turns in a superb performance in one of those rare feel-good films that should not be missed.

RETURN OF THE LIVING DEAD PART II — Grave-robbing zombie chow hounds James Karen and Thom Matthews show up for second helpings of fresh brains in a sequel to the comedy/horror film that co-stars Suzanne Snyder as Mathews' toothsome girlfriend. Supporting players include Dana Ashbrook and Marsha Dietlein.

Rated R. (Language, gore.)

Beware of any movie, especially a sequel, that lists in the production credits nine actors as "special zombies." Such are some of the better credentials of "Return of the Living Dead Part II" (1 star).

As a follow-up to "Return of the Living Dead" in 1985 (not to be confused with George Romero's "Night of the Living Dead") from 1988), "Return of the Living Dead Part II" is a cheerless unearthing that struggles to be funny and only succeeds in looking absurd.

The all-unknown cast is youthful but, excuse the pun, lifeless. If there was going to be anything in this movie to recommend, it might have been a dark, high-jinks comedy tone and potent special effects. Instead, the cast is painfully self-conscious and humorless, and the special effects look like they were purchased at a novelty store that specializes in cheap gag gifts. "Dead II" sets the record for the most oozing, gooey glop ever used in one motion picture.

If there is an audience for this movie, it is the comic book set, although most of them are excluded because of the film's R rating.

"Dead II" gives meaning to the word "zombification," but who asked? This movie about walking corpses with an appetite for brains comes off pretty brainless. "Dead II" features a new director and mostly a newer cast than the first film, which was slightly better. At least it maintained some semblance of credentials as entertainment.

That is a quality that is never present in "Dead II."

Frank Hunter — The only zombie worth getting next to is a tall one made with rum, citrus juice and a smidgin of apricot liqueur.

But filmmakers continue pouring out the other kind: hollow-eyed things damned to walk the earth for eternity. In "Return of the Living Dead Part II" count on more noxious swamp gas, hordes of bile-oozing corpses and other flagrant stupidities concocted by the busy little demons at Lorimar Pictures who have unleashed another wretched sequel.

It is truly awful sophomoric tripe, a movie arousing an unquenchable desire to throw a tarpaulin over the actors and nail down the corners.

There is nothing subtle about this film despite the producer's contention that it is all done tongue-in-cheek. The gags are macabre and gross.
